II. LITERATURE SURVEY

Our studies tell us that the important pieces of information that people need to know about a charity or nonprofit before they make a donation are the type of work that the organization does and how that work is done. In our studies, we found that many sites did not clearly communication this vital information or made it too hard for users to access. The second most important detail that users needed to know about an organization before donating was how their contribution would be used.

Our system is bringing some differences to existing one in terms of following parameters: It is going to accept multiple types of donation like cloths and books. Dual mode of acceptance of donation is available. Pickup from home or through donation center. Donor will get updation about their donation in more better way through images of their stuff donating poor needy people.

III. METHODOLOGY
